

TO WHOEVER IT MAY CONCERN

ACES-ACM, IIT Delhi, the CS departmental society promotes academic and cultural activities among the computer science students at IIT Delhi. It's mandate is to conduct a host of technical events like the massive Asian Programming Contest, the hugely popular Microsoft Code .Fun.Do, workshops, hackathons and talks by world-renowned scientists for the benefit of CS student community of IIT Delhi. Events like Counterstrike, Treasure Hunt, Number Games and Tech Quiz also are part of their activities.

It also serves as a local chapter of the ACM (Association for Computing Machinery). Consequently, it interacts with other ACM student chapters, and participates in ACM activities in India. The student volunteers and office bearers of ACES-ACM can interact with other educational institutions, ACM chapters, and other student organizations. ACES-ACM participates in the organization, evaluation, grading, and issuance of certificates. This is again guided by ACM's worldwide rules. However, ACES-ACM is prohibited to conduct, proctor, evaluate, grade, and issue certificates for academic activities that are held by other non-ACM student organizations, or commercial entities. ACES-ACM does not encourage, endorse, qualify, or promote any product, process, or activity of any third party inclusive of commercial entities.
